

Childish Ambition

Sep 4, 2018 | Andrea Kwamya

Future dreams of being a business owner date back to the old lemonade stand, but these days it is not so hard for children to turn these plans into reality. In this digital age, self-education and growth are at even the youngest child's fingertips. As the sentiment that youth is not a deterrent for early success, the need to inspire the next generation will continue causing more imagery of young business people to emerge. Soon '18 under 18' will be the big list to strive for.